

The survey took place from 21-29 April and was completed by over 3,200 architects, contractors, developers, engineers and other construction professionals asking for their thoughts on the potential impact Brexit could have on the UK construction industry.

Should Britain leave or stay in the EU?

Sub-contractors (58%) are likely to vote for Brexit than Architects (29%)

What would the effect of Brexit be on proposed major infrastructure projects such as Heathrow, HS2 and Crossrail 2?

Engineers are three times more likely to say that Brexit will have a negative effect (41%) on major infrastructure projects than a positive one (14%)

Has your opinion changed since the start of the campaign?

In terms of trading with the EU, how do you think UK based companies in the built environment sector will be affected by Brexit?

Over 50% of construction professionals believe that Brexit would exacerbate the skills shortage

Many UK construction projects are already being hampered by a skills shortage. Brexit would exacerbate this shortage even more.

70% of contractors

believe that Brexit would strengthen the case for greater support for UK manufacturing from the UK government

In terms of exports, how do you think UK manufacturers in the built environment sector will be affected by the £/Euro rate if we leave the EU?

The current UK housing crisis would improve should Britain leave the EU.

Do you think a Brexit will provide opportunities for the UK?

Two-thirds of Architects believe UK companies will be affected by the loss of vital EU funding by Brexit

UK companies will be affected by the loss of vital EU funding by Brexit.

UK Construction Week is the biggest construction trade event in the UK, combining nine shows under one roof. Taking place at the Birmingham NEC from 18-20 October, the event will unite 1,000 exhibitors with an expected audience of 30K visitors, and provide a vital platform for innovation and leadership in the UK construction industry.